ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of inspecting a photomask for a semiconductor integrated circuit formed based on drawing pattern data, includes the steps of classifying a drawing pattern of the semiconductor integrated circuit into a plurality of ranks in accordance with a predetermined reference and extracting the same, determining inspecting accuracy for each of the ranks, and deciding quality of the photomask depending on whether the determined inspecting accuracy is satisfied.